25X1C 1. In 1950, a Polish military supply depot in Czestochowa (Q 51/T 63). The depot was situated on the north side of the road to Sw. Barbary, about 3 km west of the town and just northeast of the Gnaszyn (Q 51/T 63) railroad station, from which a spur track ran into the installation. The depot contained a six or seven-story granary about 80 meters long, two three-story warehouses each about 50 meters long, three barracks buildings close to the street, and other buildings and wooden sheds apparently for the storage of foodstuffs. Horse-drawn military vehicles and trucks hauled off ration supplies from the two warehouses.

2. The three barracks buildings were occupied by about 100 Polish troops each. The soldiers wore brown uniforms with red collar patches and had rifles, submachine guns, and some machine guns mounted on small two-wheel carts.
